St. Jude's Ranch for Children Gets a Clean Up From Kinross

Tyler Childs and Abel Elizalde are enjoying spending the day doing some maintenance at St. Jude's Ranch for Children in Las Vegas. Read more about Kinross's volunteer work for abused and neglected children on pages 2 and 3.

St. Jude's Ranch Gets a Clean Up From Kinross

There is a special place in Las Vegas where abused and neglected children can create new lives with new hope. That place is called St. Jude's Ranch for Children. For 55 years, this therapeutic residential treatment facility has provided a safe, nurturing home to thousands of neglected and abused children in Nevada. Such a place deserves some sweat equity and no better crew to provide that than Kinross Nevada.

Thirteen Kinross folks spent the day on September 20 pulling weeds, pressure washing buildings, performing general maintenance tasks, as well as helping get ready St. Jude's new clinic. All the volunteers were happy to be a small part of providing hope and healing for the young residents at this facility.

Mining is a significant industry in the state of Nevada, contributing to its economic growth and providing employment opportunities. However, there may be areas within the state that are unsure about the benefits that mining brings. To spread awareness and address concerns, strategic community outreach can be employed. Doing outreach outside Round Mountain helps Kinross continuously monitor community feedback and concerns while proactively addressing any misconceptions promptly and transparently.

Giving back in our own community as well as other communities around the state—such as St. Jude's—not only spreads awareness of the benefits of mining, but also allows Kinross and its employees to help others.

Clockwise, from above: Tallon Jenkins pressure washes a building. The crew provides some upgrades to the landscaping. Lauren Shyluk weeds around the facility. Rachel and Tallon are smiling knowing how important St. Jude's Ranch is for children. The Kinross crew unloads equipment for their maintenance projects at St. Jude's.

In 4-H we believe in the power of young people!

We see that every child has valuable strengths and real influence to improve the world around us. We provide a positive environment with mentors who teach and guide the kids in areas such as health, science, agriculture, public speaking, entrepreneurship and Cloverbuds. 4-H is available to kids ages 5-18. We meet weekly, and would love to have your child(ren) join the fun. If you are interested, reach out to Sara Sweeney at 775-232-8084.
